Suhner Australia Training and Support Services

Suhner is a leader in stainless steel and aluminium polishing equipment and consumables.

At the head office of Suhner Australia in Silverwater NSW, a brand new demonstration and conference centre has been built.

The centre provides a unique base for clients to try new equipment and special abrasives to ensure they are effective for their stainless steel, aluminium or steel finishing applications.

The practical demonstration area provides state of the art tooling in a safe environment. Suhner's in-house expertise in stainless and aluminium polishing ensures that any application or problem can be studied and analysed to produce a solution and then the process implemented.

The new centre was put to its first test with Suhner's Australian Partner Distributors enjoying its 100 year celebratory conference which introduced new stainless polishing tools and abrasives as well as new metal finishing techniques.

'The facilities are available to all our customers who have purchased or are intending to purchase Suhner equipment at no charge. Formal training where we instruct on how to undertake stainless, aluminium and other metal finishing and polishing without obligation is available at an hourly rate. We have qualified in-house trainers who have had their own metal polishing businesses and now bring their expertise to Suhner and its customers,' explained Rob Bartrum, General Manager, Suhner Australia.

Suhner Australia runs these courses on a monthly basis. Fixed dates are not provided as Suhner prefers to work in with its clients to ensure it meets their needs. Simply contact Suhner to arrange a suitable date.
